Peace Energy Renewable Energy Cooperative is western Canada's first renewable energy cooperative, and the second in all of Canada.

Peace Energy was the originator and principle mover that made possible British Columbia's first commercial wind development, Bear Mountain Wind Park (102 MW) near Dawson Creek.

Peace Energy continues to receive an income from Bear Mountain. We are now pursuing other investment opportunities while providing practical renewable energy options for our members and the public, such as roof-top solar power for home and business.

When you become a member of Peace Energy Cooperative you join over 655 other like-minded members who are helping make clean energy a reality. With your initial investment of $100 you'll receive:

1) full lifetime membership in Peace Energy Cooperative with an attractive membership certificate suitable for framing.

2) one $100 membership share that may pay dividends based on the profits that the co-op will generate.

3) renewable energy investment opportunities that may become available from time to time.

4) information about green energy in the Peace Region and around the world through our newsletter and website, and early notification of co-op sponsored workshops and conferences about green energy.

5) a voice! As a member of Peace Energy, you are part of an extended group of like-minded people working to affect local, provincial and federal policy on energy issues.

6) an equal vote with every other member for the election of the co-op board and other issues of importance to the co-op. Each member of the co-op has one, and only one, vote. This gives every member an equal say, regardless of amount invested.

7) the opportunity to contribute to sustainable economic development in your community.

8) the knowledge that, by supporting Peace Energy Co-op through your membership, you are reducing greenhouse gas emissions and other pollutants, slowing global warming and creating a safer and more secure future for everyone!

about us:

Since 2003, Peace Energy Cooperative has worked to develop the renewable energy resources of the BC and Alberta Peace Country: wind, solar, biomass and geothermal.

our goals:

- local ownership of local resources
- investment opportunities for members
- renewable energy education and promotion
- partnership and alliance building
- conservation and sustainability

why a co-op?

- ownership of resources stays with local people
- each member has an equal voice regardless of investment
- the tradition of co-ops is well established in the BC and Alberta Peace region
- co-op development of renewable energy is proving to be effective world-wide generate the future!
